Wednesday, June 01, 2005

Indiana University Kokomo's Students in Free Enterprise team members won second runners-up in first round competition at the SIFE USA National Exposition.

IUK student presenters were Brian van Camp, Nate Stout, Jessica Arnold, Andy Earl and Sabina Kedhi. Margaret Sasser was media technician, while Brooke Mills, Brittany Clark and Danielle Silvey offered behind-the-scenes support.

Teams representing 164 colleges competed at the Kansas City, Mo., event.

Faculty advisor Kathy Parkison said the finish puts them in the top 60 teams in the country. The Kokomo team advanced to the national competition by winning its fifth consecutive regional title in April.

In SIFE competitions, teams present printed and audiovisual reports of community outreach projects completed in the previous academic year. Projects aim at promoting and teaching principles of free enterprise. Top business leaders serve as judges.

The team has 24 minutes to make its presentation, followed by seven minutes of questions from the judges.

IU Kokomo's team competed against nine other colleges in their round.

Companies sponsoring the National Exposition invited several Kokomo presenters to job interviews at the conference table.
